MEDIAKIT

Industry Friends and Colleagues:

As we prepare for 2010, Airport Magazine is developing articles that will address industry concerns about the nation's economic recovery; share lessons learned from the recession and the price of fuel and its impact on air service; provide timely information on regulatory and legislative issues; fulfill the far-ranging needs of airports for training information; describe the lessons airports have learned on subjects that include ARFF, technology and airfield and terminal improvements; and much more.

Every feature and department in Airport Magazine is designed to deliver relevant, timely and insightful information to our readers. We have crafted our 2010 editorial calendar with these goals in mind. The 2010 lineup combines familiar topics — such as baggage screening, concessions and winter operations — with emerging ones that include NextGen and green airports. Our format will be as varied as our selection of articles: we'll have roundtables with industry experts; articles written by airport officials; interviews with government and industry officials; and photo features to highlight aspects of our industry.

Our ambitious plans for 2010 would not be possible, however, without the faithful support of Airport Magazine's advertisers. For more than 20 years, companies that advertise to the airport community have trusted Airport Magazine to deliver their message to this audience.

For potential advertisers, please consider this: by choosing our magazine to communicate your message, you are supporting not just an advertiser-funded magazine, but an entire association — the American Association of Airport Executives.

All of us at Airport Magazine look forward to working with you in 2010 and beyond.

Sincerely,

Barbara Cook
Editor

The Right People

- Airport Magazine is published by the American Association of Airport Executives (AAAE), the largest professional organization for airport executives in the world, representing thousands of airport management personnel at public-use airports nationwide since 1928.
- Airport Magazine has been the publication of choice for airport executives from around the world since 1989. Each issue is read by more than 23,000 industry professionals to stay informed on important airport issues and trends. Airport Magazine's loyal readership also includes key aviation lawmakers on Capitol Hill and government agencies, including FAA, DOT, TSA and DHS.
- For more than 20 years, senior airport executives – including CEOs, airport directors, and senior-level managers in airport operations, maintenance, security, and administration – have relied on Airport Magazine to bring them the latest news, trends and analysis about the issues that impact them every day, as well as updates on the latest products and services.
- AAAE's eight decades of experience and membership boasting representatives from some 850 airports make Airport Magazine the most widely read and respected publication in the industry.
- With distribution at more than 80 industry conferences and trade shows, your ad is sure to be seen by top-level buyers across the entire airport market. Don't delay, reserve your advertising space today!

Airport Magazine's highly targeted segment of the industry makes it the perfect platform for your company's print advertising campaign. Our readers are the people who make the decisions and sign the checks.

"Airport Magazine is truly a valuable resource for airport professionals. The articles regarding current aviation issues, airport spotlights and advertisements all combine to provide an interesting, informative and educational tool that I always make time to review."
